COLONEL STILL ON THE STAND

Roosevelt Tells of Dealings Between Republicans and Tammany Hall in Which He Claims Barnes Was Interested—Court Bars Evidence Not Dealing With Things Specified in Petition.

By Associated Press.

Syracuse, N. Y., April 21.—Four chapters of Albany politics were related by Theodore Roosevelt on the witness stand today.

The former president gave what he claimed to be the details of the election by "Barnes Republicans," assisted by "Murphy Democrats," of an official leader of the Republican party in New York; the cause of the hostilities between William Barnes and Governor Hughes; the defeat of the Hart-Agnew racing bill by the Republican organization, and the fight he said the combined Democratic and Republican machine, the latter led by Mr. Barnes, made against direct primaries legislation.

He also identified a letter written by Mr. Barnes, in which the latter told him "the idea of getting rid of bosses is absurd, so long as you have party government."

Colonel Roosevelt was on the stand during the entire forenoon session of court. He was to continue the story, by which he hopes to prove to the jury that he was justified in causing the publication of the statement upon which Mr. Barnes is suing him for libel, this afternoon.

Syracuse, N. Y., April 21.—Theodore Roosevelt resumed the witness stand in the Supreme Court here today, and continued to tell the story of his dealings with William Barnes, in an effort to prove he was justified in making the statements upon which Mr. Barnes is suing him to recover $50,000 for alleged libel.

Before Colonel Roosevelt took the stand, Counsel representing both sides and the court discussed legal questions in regard to what should or should not be admitted in evidence.

At the end of the conference it was announced that the court had decided not to admit evidence regarding certain things not specified in the pleadings. This barred the door to the admission of a great mass of evidence dealing with politics, political methods and Mr. Barnes' alleged conversation with Colonel Roosevelt on the ethics of bossism.

Thos. F. Smith, secretary of Tammany Hall for the past 20 years, arrived at the court house today in answer to a subpoena served upon him by representatives of Colonel Roosevelt's counsel.

The subpoena calls for Mr. Smith's attendance on three days. This was taken as an indication that his examination would be very thorough.

ACTIVITY IN WEST ZONE

By Associated Press.

London, April 21.—Dispatches reaching London from the front show considerable military activity, with the artillery taking a prominent part in the attacks made by one side or the other.

A small advantage seems to rest with the Germans between the Meuse and the Lorraine frontier.

STATE FAIR ADMISSION BILL DEAD

By Associated Press.

Columbus, April 21.—The campaign for a 25 cent admission to the state fair probably will be transferred to the new board of agriculture from the legislature, as a result of the killing, by the House Agricultural Committee today, of the Moore bill making 25 cents the maximum admission charge for the fair.

The committee did this on the ground that the administrative board in charge of the fair could determine better concerning the advisability of the rate.

Legislative leaders today declared a resolution had been prepared, and might be introduced in both houses today, making Friday, April 23, the day for taking a recess and ending the active session.

TAXATION BILL PASSED TODAY

By Associated Press.

Columbus, April 21.—The Senate, by a strictly partisan vote, today passed the Parrott-Whittemore taxation bill. The vote was 29 to 11.

ALLEGED VOTE BUYERS NABBED

By Associated Press.

READY TO STORM THE DARDANELLES

Determined Assault By Land and Sea Said to Be Imminent—Six Torpedo Boats Penetrate Deep Into the Straits—Italian Senator Says Italy's Dream About to Be Realized—Austria Continues to Rush Troops to Italian Border—Russ Leave Bukowina City.

By Associated Press.

London, April 21.—A land and sea attack on the Dardanelles, on a larger scale than at any time since the allies began their effort to win Constantinople, apparently is imminent.

Early reports that 20,000 British and French troops have been landed on the north shore of the Gulf of Saros, European Turkey, indicate that land operations are actually under way.

This force presumably will be employed for an attack upon the rear of the Turkish fortifications along the European side of the straits, at the same time that a bombardment from the sea is undertaken by the fleet.

Additional British troops are arriving daily from European transports, at the island of Lemnos, west of the entrance to the Dardanelles.

An official statement from Constantinople says that six torpedo boats attempted to penetrate the straits on Monday night, and yesterday there was an engagement between warships and Turkish fortifications, presumably in connection with the landing of troops.

Rome, April 21.—At a patriotic demonstration in Rome, a member of the Italian Senate addressed a manifesto to the people, to the effect that "consolidation is approaching Italians who have waited and suffered," referring evidently to the nation's desire to absorb "unredeemed Italy," or the Austrian provinces to the north.

Austria is reported to be concentrating troops hastily along the border, in fear of an invasion by Italian troops, but Prince von Buelow, German ambassador at Rome, denies that a rupture between Italy and Austria is imminent.

A Berlin dispatch says that Tarnow, Galicia, has been evacuated by the Russians.

MORE MEN WILL RESIGN

FORD STORY NOT A JOKE

By Associated Press.

The company employs about 2,400 persons in Canada. The scale, as adopted, increases the wages of all employees from 15 to 60 per cent.

By Associated Press.

Yonkers, N. Y., April 21.—The strike among the 1,000 pupils of public school No. 20, who refused to attend school because their former principal failed to be re-appointed, collapsed when 13 of the boy strikers were fined $2 each by a city judge.

THIS SORT OF BANK PAYS NO INTEREST!

SOME folks are still so out of date—or, to put it more frankly, so FOOLISH—as to hide their savings in an old teapot, or an old stocking, or under the carpet, or in some other secret place. They seem to think a bank is MYSTERIOUS or COMPLEX or UNSAFE. This sort of notion is, of course, way BEHIND THE TIMES. Deposits in this bank are SAFE, and they GROW. This bank is under GOVERNMENTAL supervision.

WILSON TO THE PRESS

New York, April 21.—It is a sympathetic, fair, impartial nation that President Wilson longs for to stand behind him in the present emergency in world affairs, a country indivisibly for America first, imbued with a real spirit of neutrality, and therefore better able to mediate the affairs of the world. This plea was made before newspaper publishers who had gathered here from all parts of the United States. It is the president's wish that all his fellow citizens will realize this and stand together, untorn by petty distempers created by those who are shouting their views the loudest.

"Men are saying that if we go to war upon either side, there would be a divided America—an abominable libel of ignorance," he said.

CUPID HARD HIT BY COAL STRIKE

St. Clairsville, O., April 21.—The report of the probate judge shows a decrease of 20 per cent in marriage licenses in Belmont county during the year of the coal strike, which also is blamed for a decrease in the number of administrators appointed. # THIS SORT OF BANK PAYS NO INTEREST!

SOME folks are still so out of date—or, to put it more frankly, so FOOLISH—as to hide their savings in an old teapot, or an old stocking, or under the carpet, or in some other secret place. They seem to think a bank is MYSTERIOUS or COMPLEX or UNSAFE. This sort of notion is, of course, way BEHIND THE TIMES. Deposits in this bank are SAFE, and they GROW. This bank is under GOVERNMENTAL supervision.

WILSON TO THE PRESS

New York, April 21.—It is a sympathetic, fair, impartial nation that President Wilson longs for to stand behind him in the present emergency in world affairs, a country indivisibly for America first, imbued with a real spirit of neutrality, and therefore better able to mediate the affairs of the world. This plea was made before newspaper publishers who had gathered here from all parts of the United States. It is the president's wish that all his fellow citizens will realize this and stand together, untorn by petty distempers created by those who are shouting their views the loudest.

"Men are saying that if we go to war upon either side, there would be a divided America—an abominable libel of ignorance," he said.

The Duty of Public Officials.

Long needed street improvements are well under way now. They are to cost Washington people a big sum of money. Several streets are being improved and the people whose property adjoins those streets are to be compelled to pay for the work.

They want the improvement and will be glad to pay for the work when it is completed. They have asked for permanent improvement of the streets and have been promised that the standard of work done shall be proportionate to the high price which they have agreed to pay.

With such a large amount of street improvement work in progress right now the city officials must keep on the jump to see to it that contractors do the work right.

Every brick and every other bit of material, used in the work, should be up to standard and the city officials, whose duty it is to look after the interests of the people, should see to it that the contractors do not shirk in a single particular from the letter of their contract.

These contractors, as a rule and, of course, speaking generally, are men of "experience" and are amply able to look after the work so that no less of money will accrue to them. They are in the work for the profit there is in it and, quite naturally, will do the work, if possible, so that no loss falls on them.

This matter of street improvement is a peculiar sort of a plan after all, the individuals who foot the bills have little to say about how the money shall be spent or how the work shall be done.

Public officials make the contracts and public officials are charged with the duty of seeing to it that the work complies with the contract.

The rights of the people are peculiarly and particularly in the hands of the officials in street improvement matters and public officials should realize that fact to the full extent—they are, in those matters, special trustees, they are the direct personal representatives of the people interested in the improvement, and they should be more vigilant, if possible, in these particular cases.

So far the local officials have been on the ground watching the work and there is no reason to believe that they will relax their efforts, but a suggestion that the people must and do depend upon them to look after their interests and see to it that they get value received for their money, will do no harm.

Upon whether the work on the public improvements now under way is properly done depends much of satisfaction and real good in the future, and the officials must see to it that it is properly done.

The Case of Leo Frank

The Supreme Court of the United States on Monday handed down its long anticipated decision in the matter of the application of Leo Frank, convicted by the State Courts of Georgia and now under sentence of death.

Frank contended that he had been denied a fair trial and had been deprived of the privileges guaranteed to every American citizen by the federal constitution and that therefore he was held in custody without any authority in law and should be released.

The Leo Frank case has attracted world wide interest—second to no case except perhaps the famous Dreyfus case in France.

Like in the Dreyfus case the attorneys and friends of Frank contended that his conviction was the result of prejudice against his race and not warranted by the evidence.

The published facts in connection with this remarkable case, and most of which unfortunately, on account of the technicalities of legal procedure, cannot be considered by the higher courts, indicate strongly that Frank is the innocent victim of circumstances which have been arrayed against him by his prejudice fellow townsmen.

Two of the Justices of the Supreme Court held that Frank's contentions were correct and they dissented from the majority opinion of the court.

Justice Holmes in his dissenting opinion announced a doctrine which appears sound to the mind unskilled in legal technicalities that the loss of jurisdiction by the trial court could not be regained by a decision of a higher court.

If the Supreme Court of Georgia was forbidden by the rules of procedure to consider the facts then Justice Holmes announced, it was the duty of the federal courts to declare mob law as invalid "when practiced by a regularly drawn jury as when practiced by one selected by a mob intent on death."

It does seem that somewhere in all the multitude of courts there should be one which could hear and determine on the facts Frank's charge that he was in reality convicted by a mob and not by due process of law.

The American people would be much easier in conscience, if Frank dies on the gallows or in the electric chair, to know that some unprejudiced tribunal has heard and passed on the facts than they will be if his splendid fight for justice and appeal for a hearing on the facts is denied because of the form and sham of judicial procedure.

It is possible that a mob ruled court can convict a man in this great land of freedom and that instantly the door of every tribunal of justice is closed against him. Is the barrier of legal form so impregnable as that? If so another awful reason for a reform of judicial procedure has been furnished.

Poetry For Today

PASS A LAW.

Are your neighbors very bad?
Pass a law!
Do they smoke? Do they chew?
Pass a law!
Are they always bothering you?
Do not 'they do as you would do
Pass a law!

Are your wages awful low?
Pass a law!
Are the prices much too high?
Do the wife and babies cry
'Cause the turkeys all roost high?
Pass a law!

When M. D. finds new diseases,
Pass a law!
Got the mumps or encephalitis,
Measles, croup or "expertitis?"
Lest we all fly to pieces,
Pass a law!

Are the lights aburning red?
Pass a law!
Paint 'em green, or paint 'em white!
Close up all them places tight!
My! Our town is such a sight!
Pass a law!

No matter what the trouble is,
Pass a law!
Goodness sakes, but ain't it awful!
My! What are we going to do?
Almost anything ain't lawful,
And the Judge is human, too!
Pass a law!

—Public.

MAKE GOOD WORK POSSIBLE.

You cannot do good work while your bowels are sluggish or your liver torpid. Wm. O. E. Bielke, Mgr. Scott Hotel, Hancock, Mich., says: "I gave Foley Cathartic Tablets a thorough trial, and find them a mild but safe cathartic." Foley Cathartic Tablets never gripe or cause nausea. They do away with that drowsy, dull feeling and are wholesome, cleansing and healthful. Most satisfactory for stout persons. Blackmer & Tanquary.

Luke McLuke Says

It often happens that a man has no peace of mind because his wife is always giving him a piece of hers.

A man would rather spend ten months telling about his troubles than spend ten hours in getting rid of them.

It is easy to get a reputation for being a wise man. Just wear a tall hat and a frock coat and keep your mouth shut.

He expects her to provide for the inner man, but he kicks when she asks him to provide for the outer woman.

If we would work as hard as we worry we would all be wealthy.

When a man is bragging that his dog has more sense than he has he thinks you won't believe it.

Wealth doesn't always bring beauty. Some of the heiresses look as though they had been born with silver soup ladles in their mouths.

A woman isn't always arranging for friend husband's funeral when she is gazing intently into a gun store window. Maybe she is only admiring her reflection in the window pane.

Tell a girl how pretty she is looking and the moment your back is turned she will open her hand bag and powder her nose.

Too many of the men who are waiting for their ships to come in do their waiting where they can see the schooners crossing the bar.

You do not have to go to Europe to see a real battle. Just go home with a man who hasn't notified his wife that he is bringing a stranger to dinner.

Some men are so strong in their belief that they should profit by their mistakes that they are always short changing other people.

There are all sorts of people in the world, including the man who has time to sit down and worry because oratory is on the decline in this country.

BOMBS THROWN INTO RHEIMS

Paris, April 21.—The following official communique was issued here: "Fifty incendiary bombs were thrown into Rheims. In Champagne and in the Argonne there were artillery duels without infantry attacks. Between the Meuse and the Moselle, in the Montmarie wood, near the Filirey Essey road, we have made slight progress."

DIDN'T GET A JOB.

But She Should Have Landed It if Nerve Was a Recommendation.

"I've seen a lot of cool ones in my time, but believe me I caught one the other day that had 'em all skinned for nerve."

The speaker, a detective in one of the large downtown department stores, was leaning against the rail in a police court waiting for her case to be called. "I spotted a woman whose action didn't just suit me. I trailed her for about ten minutes and then, presto, she gobbled on to a bar of five cent soap. That wasn't hardly enough in itself to hang a case on, so I kept my mouth shut and my eyes open as she made her way toward the elevator. When she got into the cage I was right behind her, and I almost stepped on her skirt as she 'traipsed' along the aisle toward the office."

"Apparently, as if in search of work, I played with a slip as she told the boss her story, and, would you believe me, she was trying to get a job. She wanted to get a place in the soap department, saying that she had been a demonstrator for a large soap concern; that she was tired of the outdoor work and offered the bar of soap she had just stolen as evidence of the fact that she was an experienced saleswoman."

"I stood it as long as I could and then gave the superintendent the 'high sign' to 'can' her. Can you beat that for nerve?"—Detroit Saturday Night.

Law and the Queen.

The quaintness of many provisions of British law is curiously illustrated in the status of the queen of England. So far as her majesty's private business is concerned, she is not regarded by the laws and customs of England as a married woman at all. She is the only woman in Great Britain who does not come within the scope of the married woman's property act. The idea in all this is that affairs of state consume all the time of the king, and therefore no responsibility for the queen's private business rests upon him. If the queen contracted debts in her husband's name he would not be responsible for them, as any other husband in the United Kingdom would. The king cannot be sued for debt, but the queen can be. Should the king die some authorities hold that the queen could not marry again, in case she wished to, without the license of the king's successor.—New York Tribune.

They want the improvement and will be glad to pay for the work when it is completed. They have asked for permanent improvement of the streets and have been promised that the standard of work done shall be proportionate to the high price which they have agreed to pay. With such a large amount of street improvement work in progress right now the city officials must keep on the jump to see to it that contractors do the work right. Every brick and every other bit of material, used in the work, should be up to standard and the city officials, whose duty it is to look after the interests of the people, should see to it that the contractors do not shirk in a single particular from the letter of their contract. These contractors, as a rule and, of course, speaking generally, are men of "experience" and are amply able to look after the work so that no less of money will accrue to them. They are in the work for the profit there is in it and, quite naturally, will do the work, if possible, so that no loss falls on them. This matter of street improvement is a peculiar sort of a plan after all, the individuals who foot the bills have little to say about how the money shall be spent or how the work shall be done. Public officials make the contracts and public officials are charged with the duty of seeing to it that the work complies with the contract. The rights of the people are peculiarly and particularly in the hands of the officials in street improvement matters and public officials should realize that fact to the full extent—they are, in those matters, special trustees, they are the direct personal representatives of the people interested in the improvement, and they should be more vigilant, if possible, in these particular cases. So far the local officials have been on the ground watching the work and there is no reason to believe that they will relax their efforts, but a suggestion that the people must and do depend upon them to look after their interests and see to it that they get value received for their money, will do no harm. Upon whether the work on the public improvements now under way is properly done depends much of satisfaction and real good in the future, and the officials must see to it that it is properly done.

The Case of Leo Frank

The Supreme Court of the United States on Monday handed down its long anticipated decision in the matter of the application of Leo Frank, convicted by the State Courts of Georgia and now under sentence of death. Frank contended that he had been denied a fair trial and had been deprived of the privileges guaranteed to every American citizen by the federal constitution and that therefore he was held in custody without any authority in law and should be released. The Leo Frank case has attracted world wide interest—second to no case except perhaps the famous Dreyfus case in France. Like in the Dreyfus case the attorneys and friends of Frank contended that his conviction was the result of prejudice against his race and not warranted by the evidence. The published facts in connection with this remarkable case, and most of which unfortunately, on account of the technicalities of legal procedure, cannot be considered by the higher courts, indicate strongly that Frank is the innocent victim of circumstances which have been arrayed against him by his prejudice fellow townsmen. Two of the Justices of the Supreme Court held that Frank's contentions were correct and they dissented from the majority opinion of the court. Justice Holmes in his dissenting opinion announced a doctrine which appears sound to the mind unskilled in legal technicalities that the loss of jurisdiction by the trial court could not be regained by a decision of a higher court. If the Supreme Court of Georgia was forbidden by the rules of procedure to consider the facts then Justice Holmes announced, it was the duty of the federal courts to declare mob law as invalid "when practiced by a regularly drawn jury as when practiced by one selected by a mob intent on death." It does seem that somewhere in all the multitude of courts there should be one which could hear and determine on the facts Frank's charge that he was in reality convicted by a mob and not by due process of law. The American people would be much easier in conscience, if Frank dies on the gallows or in the electric chair, to know that some unprejudiced tribunal has heard and passed on the facts than they will be if his splendid fight for justice and appeal for a hearing on the facts is denied because of the form and sham of judicial procedure. It is possible that a mob ruled court can convict a man in this great land of freedom and that instantly the door of every tribunal of justice is closed against him. Is the barrier of legal form so impregnable as that? If so another awful reason for a reform of judicial procedure has been furnished.

Poetry For Today

PASS A LAW.
Are your neighbors very bad?
Pass a law!
Do they smoke? Do they chew?
Pass a law!
Are they always bothering you?
Do not 'they do as you would do
Pass a law!
Are your wages awful low?
Pass a law!
Are the prices much to high?
Do the wife and babies cry
'Cause the turkeys all roost high?
Pass a law!
When M. D. finds new diseases,
Pass a law!
Got the mumps or encephalitis,
Measles, croup or "expertitis?"
Lest we all fly to pieces,
Pass a law!
Are the lights aburning red?
Pass a law!
Paint 'em green, or paint 'em white!
Close up all them places tight!
My! Our town is such a sight!
Pass a law!
No matter what the trouble is,
Pass a law!
Goodness sakes, but ain't it awful!
My! What are we going to do?
Almost anything ain't lawful,
And the Judge is human, too!
Pass a law!

It often happens that a man has no peace of mind because his wife is always giving him a piece of hers.

A man would rather spend ten months telling about his troubles than spend ten hours in getting rid of them. It is easy to get a reputation for being a wise man. Just wear a tall hat and a frock coat and keep your mouth shut.

He expects her to provide for the inner man, but he kicks when she asks him to provide for the outer woman.

When a man is bragging that his dog has more sense than he has he thinks you won't believe it.

Wealth doesn't always bring beauty. Some of the heiresses look as though they had been born with silver soup ladles in their mouths.

A woman isn't always arranging for friend husband's funeral when she is gazing intently into a gun store window. Maybe she is only admiring her reflection in the window pane.

Tell a girl how pretty she is looking and the moment your back is turned she will open her hand bag and powder her nose.

Too many of the men who are waiting for their ships to come in do their waiting where they can see the schooners crossing the bar.

You do not have to go to Europe to see a real battle. Just go home with a man who hasn't notified his wife that he is bringing a stranger to dinner.

Some men are so strong in their belief that they should profit by their mistakes that they are always short changing other people.

There are all sorts of people in the world, including the man who has time to sit down and worry because oratory is on the decline in this country.

But She Should Have Landed It If Nerve Was a Recommendation.

"I've seen a lot of cool ones in my time, but believe me I caught one the other day that had 'em all skinned for nerve."

The speaker, a detective in one of the large downtown department stores, was leaning against the rail in a police court waiting for her case to be called. "I spotted a woman whose action didn't just suit me. I trailed her for about ten minutes and then, presto, she gobbled on to a bar of five cent soap. That wasn't hardly enough in itself to hang a case on, so I kept my mouth shut and my eyes open as she made her way toward the elevator. When she got into the cage I was right behind her, and I almost stepped on her skirt as she traipsed along the aisle toward the office.

"Apparently, as if in search of work, I played with a slip as she told the boss her story, and, would you believe me, she was trying to get a job. She wanted to get a place in the soap department, saying that she had been a demonstrator for a large soap concern; that she was tired of the outdoor work and offered the bar of soap she had just stolen as evidence of the fact that she was an experienced saleswoman.

"I stood it as long as I could and then gave the superintendent the 'high sign' to 'can' her. Can you beat that for nerve?"—Detroit Saturday Night.

Law and the Queen.

The quaintness of many provisions of British law is curiously illustrated in the status of the queen of England. So far as her majesty's private business is concerned, she is not regarded by the laws and customs of England as a married woman at all. She is the only woman in Great Britain who does not come within the scope of the married woman's property act. The idea in all this is that affairs of state consume all the time of the king, and therefore no responsibility for the queen's private business rests upon him. If the queen contracted debts in her husband's name he would not be responsible for them, as any other husband in the United Kingdom would. The king cannot be sued for debt, but the queen can be. Should the king die some authorities hold that the queen could not marry again, in case she wished to, without the license of the king's successor.—New York Tribune.

HOWARD MURDER TRIAL BEGINS THIS MORNING

WORK OF SELECTING JURY IS PROCEEDING VERY SLOWLY AND SPECIAL VENIRE MAY BE NECESSARY.

ACCUSED MAN PRESENT SHOWS NO NERVOUSNESS

ALL BUT TWO OF FIRST TWELVE MEN ARE EXCUSED. TWO BEING PASSED FOR CAUSE—REVIEW OF MURDER COMMITTED ON THE NIGHT OF JANUARY 4TH AND FOR WHICH COLORED MAN IS NOW BEING TRIED.

The trial of William Howard, colored, charged with the murder, on the night of January 4th, of Mrs. Nannie Byrd, colored, whom he is alleged to have shot down in cold blood during a fit of anger, opened in common pleas court, Wednesday morning, when the work of selecting a jury was taken up.

The accused man appeared in court, under guard, and watched proceedings with interest. He showed little traces of nervousness. His wife accompanied him. A crowd of about 100 spectators occupied seats in the court room.

Prosecutor Tom Maddox and W. B. Rodgers represent the state and Gregg, Patton & Gregg the defendant.

The defense submitted an affidavit for a continuance of the trial on the grounds that Alonzo Sharp, an important witness, could not be located, but by subsequent agreement as to certain evidence the witness was represented to possess, the case proceeded.

At 3:30 o'clock 27 veniremen had been called and 18 excused, two of the 27 not having been examined at that time.

The crime of which Howard is charged occurred in the famous "French Flats," on Water street, near the D. T. & I. depot, and the evidence coming to light is said to be purely circumstantial. During his confinement in the county jail Howard has refused to admit killing the woman, and as far as possible has refrained from discussing it.

Howard, who is about 40 years of age, is said to have served a term in the Ohio penitentiary for entering a safe in London, Madison county, but during his residence in this city previous to the murder on the night of January 4th, had conducted himself as an ordinary citizen.

On the night of the murder the shooting took place at 7:30, but it was a half hour later before the police were notified and made the arrest. No gun was found on Howard, but a heavy Colts revolver, of 44 calibre, was found up the railroad a short distance from the flats where the shooting occurred.

According to Mrs. Howard's story, told to the police at the time, she was in her home next door to the Byrd apartments when she heard a heavy report in the Byrd apartment. Upon opening the kitchen door she was confronted by Howard who carried a heavy revolver. He shoved the weapon against her body, but before he could pull the trigger she pushed him back and whirled to one side and slammed the door. At that instant Howard fired and the ball buried itself in the door casing. Howard then thrust open the door and bolted through the rooms of his own home, disappearing in the night. He still carried the gun, it is claimed, but made no further attempt to use it.

Following arrest he became somewhat violent in jail but the examination by a doctor failed to reveal any marked indications of the man being intoxicated.

It is claimed that no one saw the fatal shot fired, and it is supposed that immediately after the shot was fired he turned and entered his own home, with the deadly weapon still in his hand.

During his three and one-half months of confinement in the county jail he has been a model prisoner.

HUNDREDS OF ODD FELLOWS WITNESS WORK

Between 400 and 500 Odd Fellows from this and adjoining counties, assembled at Memorial Hall, Tuesday night, to witness the superb work of Imperial Degree Staff, which conferred the dramatic degree upon some 12 candidates from Hillsboro, Leesburg, Mt. Sterling, Milledgeville and this city.

It was the last big initiation of the season, and representatives from more than a half score of lodges flocked to the city to witness the work of Washington's famous staff, and as usual the work was pronounced the best the visitors had ever witnessed. Words of praise for the big staff were plentiful, and to those who had never before beheld the staff in action the work was a decided revelation.

The staff was at its best, and the scenic effects were carried out in full, and it was nearly eleven o'clock before the meeting came to an end.

Unless the staff makes a trip to the Panama-Pacific exposition during the coming summer, no other big meetings will be held where the degree work is the sole attraction. However, the staff will keep in perfect trim and be ready for a busy time next fall and winter.

WELFARE CAMPAIGN GIVEN ENCOURAGEMENT

The Welfare Association continues to wage a strenuous campaign for the success of this vitally important organization.

Those at the head of the movement are receiving more encouragement than at any previous time. This week the Wonderland theater is putting on a benefit performance for the association and a large number of women are selling tickets, helping out the association.

Manager Johnson has secured one of the most fascinating young actresses of the day, Marguerite Clark, for the benefit booking, Friday night. In both legitimate drama and photoplays, this beautiful young woman has achieved notable distinction, and has always, whether on the stage or on the screen, played to crowded houses.

The Welfare Association workers feel that in such a photo play as will be shown Friday night in "Wild Flower," Washington people are not merely asked to donate; but will have a real treat as well as lending their assistance to the cause.

The three picture theaters benefits, the one already given by Manager Smith of the Palace, the one to be Friday night at the Wonderland and the Colonial benefit to follow later, will add quite a sum to the exchequer of the association and the ladies are very grateful to the donors.

Rumors are afloat that there are other donations being considered and the association is now hopeful of being able to continue the work they have started for bettering conditions among the poor in our city.

Do unto others as you would have them do unto you. You may be destitute some day. Help the poor and suffering, through a donation to the Welfare Association.

AN APPLICANT FOR MEMBER OF STATE AGRICULTURAL BOARD

According to report in this city Wednesday, Mr. Wilson Morris, president of the County Board of Education and prominent Greene township farmer, is an applicant for membership on the state board of agriculture which takes the place of the Agricultural Commission, and is to be made up of some twelve members from various parts of the state.

The board members are appointed by Governor Willis, and a member from Fayette county is not unlikely. Mr. Morris is a brother of Commissioner-elect Emmett Morris, of near Buena Vista.

MINISTER SUFFERS BADLY BROKEN ARM

While Rev. Wm. Boynton Gage, of the First Presbyterian church, and Evangelist Frank A. Miller were on their way to the home of Mr. Hugh Stewart on the Columbus pike, Tuesday afternoon, the horse they were driving became frightened and plunging into the ditch overturned the buggy, breaking Rev. Miller's right arm.

The mishap occurred one mile out of the city and when the rig overturned both ministers were pinioned beneath the rig until the horse lunged forward and pulled the buggy off of them. Besides the broken arm Rev. Miller was badly bruised, while Rev. Gage escaped with no more than a disagreeable shaking up.

UGLY TEMPER GETS HUSBAND IN TROUBLE

Sheriff South and Deputy Stan Arthur were in Sabina Monday and in company with Mayor Dakin, went to the home of Eli Cline, east of town, and upon an affidavit sworn to by the wife took the husband in charge. Mr. Cline is a hard-working man, but the trouble came about through the fear of the wife for her life, as he frequently threatened to kill her and the children. When arrested he was at work in the field and offered no resistance. He admitted his having bad spells and regretted his actions, claiming he was happy with his family. He was taken before Judge Mills, and it is thought a rest and treatment will benefit him.—Sabina Tribune.

A DIVERTED RIVER.

Who Changed the Flow of the Karun In Persia Is a Mystery.

Arabistan lies at the head of the Persian gulf, its western boundary being the Shatel-Arab, the great river formed by the combined waters of the Tigris and Euphrates, the right bank of which is in Persian territory, while the left is in Turkish Arabia. Forty miles above where it flows into the Persian gulf the Shatel-Arab is joined by the Karun, and the town of Mohammerah stands at the junction of the two rivers, the former a clear green stream, the latter thick and red.

In ancient times the Karun flowed into the gulf and part of the river still runs along the old channel, but the main stream has been diverted, three miles above Mohammerah, into an artificial channel known geographically as the Haffar canal.

It is impossible even to make a guess at the date of this wonderful work, not even a tradition remaining of the ruler whose farsightedness realized the enormous advantage of joining up the two water ways. Alexander the Great has been suggested, but apparently for no other reason than that he is a convenient and likely person to credit with any ambitious enterprise, and that one of his many Alexandrias was built on the site of the present Mohammerah.—Wide World Magazine.

Uncertainty.

"I am always horribly nervous when I buy a suit of clothes from a stranger."

"Yes; a person you don't know is hard to stand off."—Houston Post.

Swallowed and Climbed.

A woman newly rich was invited to an aristocratic dinner party. During the course of fowl and salad this woman noticed with dismay a fat, furry caterpillar on her topmost leaf of lettuce. Glancing up, she met her aristocratic hostess' eye. The hostess, too, had seen the caterpillar. Her gaze implored the guest to save the dinner from catastrophe. The guest gave her hostess a reassuring smile. Then she doubled a lettuce leaf around the caterpillar and swallowed it calmly. The look of awe and gratitude that her hostess gave her was an assurance that her footing in society was at last firmly established.

"Did you think," said Mrs. Newly-rich to her daughter afterward, "that I'd lose a chance of establishing the family socially for a little thing like a caterpillar?"

Where Shell Bracelets Come From.

Though Dacca has lost its trade in fine muslins, it is still the chief center of the manufacture of the shell bracelets everywhere worn among the Hindus. These are cut by women, using a very primitive saw, from what is popularly known as the chank shell of the East Indian seas, and into the sunk portion of the design colored lac is melted. Except the rare specimens with reversed opening, which have fetched as much as £70, chanks are not costly. But the shell is sacred to Vishnu, and the bangles and anklets made from it are frequently left on the body at burial. Thus these sankha are not entirely subject to fluctuations of taste, and the demand for them remains steady.—London Chronicle.

The defense submitted an affidavit for a continuance of the trial on the grounds that Alonzo Sharp, an important witness, could not be located, but by subsequent agreement as to certain evidence the witness was represented to possess, the case proceeded.

At 3:30 o'clock 27 veniremen had been called and 18 excused, two of the 27 not having been examined at that time.

The crime of which Howard is charged occurred in the famous "French Flats," on Water street, near the D. T. & I. depot, and the evidence coming to light is said to be purely circumstantial. During his confinement in the county jail Howard has refused to admit killing the woman, and as far as possible has refrained from discussing it.

Howard, who is about 40 years of age, is said to have served a term in the Ohio penitentiary for entering a safe in London, Madison county, but during his residence in this city previous to the murder on the night of January 4th, had conducted himself as an ordinary citizen.

On the night of the murder the shooting took place at 7:30, but it was a half hour later before the police were notified and made the arrest. No gun was found on Howard, but a heavy Colts revolver, of 44 calibre, was found up the railroad a short distance from the flats where the shooting occurred.

According to Mrs. Howard's story, told to the police at the time, she was in her home next door to the Byrd apartments when she heard a heavy report in the Byrd apartment. Upon opening the kitchen door she was confronted by Howard who carried a heavy revolver. He shoved the weapon against her body, but before he could pull the trigger she pushed him back and whirled to one side and slammed the door. At that instant Howard fired and the ball buried itself in the door casing. Howard then thrust open the door and bolted through the rooms of his own home, disappearing in the night. He still carried the gun, it is claimed, but made no further attempt to use it.

Following arrest he became somewhat violent in jail but the examination by a doctor failed to reveal any marked indications of the man being intoxicated.

It is claimed that no one saw the fatal shot fired, and it is supposed that immediately after the shot was fired he turned and entered his own home, with the deadly weapon still in his hand.

During his three and one-half months of confinement in the county jail he has been a model prisoner.

HUNDREDS OF ODD FELLOWS WITNESS WORK

Between 400 and 500 Odd Fellows from this and adjoining counties, assembled at Memorial Hall, Tuesday night, to witness the superb work of Imperial Degree Staff, which conferred the dramatic degree upon some 12 candidates from Hillsboro, Leesburg, Mt. Sterling, Milledgeville and this city.

It was the last big initiation of the season, and representatives from more than a half score of lodges flocked to the city to witness the work of Washington's famous staff, and as usual the work was pronounced the best the visitors had ever witnessed. Words of praise for the big staff were plentiful, and to those who had never before beheld the staff in action the work was a decided revelation.

The staff was at its best, and the scenic effects were carried out in full, and it was nearly eleven o'clock before the meeting came to an end.

Unless the staff makes a trip to the Panama-Pacific exposition during the coming summer, no other big meetings will be held where the degree work is the sole attraction. However, the staff will keep in perfect trim and be ready for a busy time next fall and winter.

WELFARE CAMPAIGN GIVEN ENCOURAGEMENT

The Welfare Association continues to wage a strenuous campaign for the success of this vitally important organization.

Those at the head of the movement are receiving more encouragement than at any previous time. This week the Wonderland theater is putting on a benefit performance for the association and a large number of women are selling tickets, helping out the association.

Manager Johnson has secured one of the most fascinating young actresses of the day, Marguerite Clark, for the benefit booking, Friday night. In both legitimate drama and photoplays, this beautiful young woman has achieved notable distinction, and has always, whether on the stage or on the screen, played to crowded houses.

The Welfare Association workers feel that in such a photo play as will be shown Friday night in "Wild Flower," Washington people are not merely asked to donate; but will have a real treat as well as lending their assistance to the cause.

The three picture theaters benefits, the one already given by Manager Smith of the Palace, the one to be Friday night at the Wonderland and the Colonial benefit to follow later, will add quite a sum to the exchequer of the association and the ladies are very grateful to the donors.

Rumors are afloat that there are other donations being considered and the association is now hopeful of being able to continue the work they have started for bettering conditions among the poor in our city.

Do unto others as you would have them do unto you. You may be destitute some day. Help the poor and suffering, through a donation to the Welfare Association.

MINISTER SUFFERS BADLY BROKEN ARM

While Rev. Wm. Boynton Gage, of the First Presbyterian church, and Evangelist Frank A. Miller were on their way to the home of Mr. Hugh Stewart on the Columbus pike, Tuesday afternoon, the horse they were driving became frightened and plunging into the ditch overturned the buggy, breaking Rev. Miller's right arm.

The mishap occurred one mile out of the city and when the rig overturned both ministers were pinioned beneath the rig until the horse lunged forward and pulled the buggy off of them. Besides the broken arm Rev. Miller was badly bruised, while Rev. Gage escaped with no more than a disagreeable shaking up.

UGLY TEMPER GETS HUSBAND IN TROUBLE

Sheriff South and Deputy Stan Arthur were in Sabina Monday and in company with Mayor Dakin, went to the home of Eli Cline, east of town, and upon an affidavit sworn to by the wife took the husband in charge. Mr. Cline is a hard-working man, but the trouble came about through the fear of the wife for her life, as he frequently threatened to kill her and the children. When arrested he was at work in the field and offered no resistance. He admitted his having bad spells and regretted his actions, claiming he was happy with his family. He was taken before Judge Mills, and it is thought a rest and treatment will benefit him.—Sabina Tribune.

A DIVERTED RIVER.

Who Changed the Flow of the Karun In Persia Is a Mystery.

Arabistan lies at the head of the Persian gulf, its western boundary being the Shat-el-Arab, the great river formed by the combined waters of the Tigris and Euphrates, the right bank of which is in Persian territory, while the left is in Turkish Arabia. Forty miles above where it flows into the Persian gulf the Shat-el-Arab is joined by the Karun, and the town of Mohammerah stands at the junction of the two rivers; the former a clear green stream, the latter thick and red.

In ancient times the Karun flowed into the gulf and part of the river still runs along the old channel, but the main stream has been diverted, three miles above Mohammerah, into an artificial channel known geographically as the Haffar canal.

It is impossible even to make a guess at the date of this wonderful work, not even a tradition remaining of the ruler whose farsightedness realized the enormous advantage of joining up the two water ways. Alexander the Great has been suggested, but apparently for no other reason than that he is a convenient and likely person to credit with any ambitious enterprise, and that one of his many Alexandrias was built on the site of the present Mohammerah.—Wide World Magazine.

THE GERMAN POTASH EMBARGO

With the complete embargo which Germany is maintaining against exports of potash, the rising hopes of American consumers have been blasted and has sent prices up to former prohibitive levels of from three to four times normal quotations. It looked a while back as if America was going to get a fair stock of potash, but up to this time, no relief is in sight and the embargo remains intact.

The United States consumes 3500 tons of potash salts per day. Up to January 1st, the shortage in this country, due to the war, was over 375,000 tons, and it is estimated that by May 1st the shortage will have increased to about 725,000 tons. The potash embargo will work a severe hardship on our fertilizer companies who have to move on a prearranged plan of manufacture.

Our leading agricultural scientists advise the use of lime as a means through which the insoluble potash in the soil can be made soluble and available as a plant food. Almost all soils contain potash and most all have enough for present plant requirements while some contain an excess beyond these requirements. If this valuable store of potash can be liberated and made available by the application of lime, the average farmer can readily make up the balance of potash needed to insure a good growth of the better paying crops which are the grains. It is not claimed that lime will take the place of potash but it is a substitute to the extent of increasing the available amount of potash for plant requirement through its stimulating action in releasing such potash as lies in the soil in unavailable form for plant food. The lime should be applied to the soil evenly, with a lime spreader if possible, and let the harrow follow shortly after. If the soil should be sour, and a good many are more or less from the overuse of vegetable and animal matter, the lime, will in addition, neutralize the acidity resulting in a more healthy growth of the plant—Bulletin.

PREPARING MARKET STREET FOR OIL

A force of men are busy preparing Market street, from North street eastward, for the reception of oil, the loose earth and refuse being scraped to the gutter, piled up and later hauled away.

It is expected that the oiling will begin Thursday, making Market the first street to receive attention. The center will be oiled and the sides later, affording a clear track for traffic at all times.

So well was the oil applied last year that it is still very noticeable along the sides near the gutter.

DRY WEATHER HAS INJURED CLOVER

Meadows are not springing forth as rapidly as usual, a result of insufficient moisture.

CORN PLANTING NEAR AT HAND

Within the next two weeks corn planting is expected to be under way in Fayette county, notwithstanding that May 5th to 10th is the usual time for general planting.

Much of the soil has broken up in splendid condition this spring, and many farmers are ready to give their soil the final working before the corn is planted. Indications are that the corn crop will be planted in short order when the work once begins.

DRY WEATHER HAS INJURED CLOVER

A farmer from the Seiden neighborhood states that the unusually dry weather of this spring has resulted in much of the spring sown clover and timothy either being damaged or failing to germinate, with the result, he predicts, that the spring sown grass will not be a good "stand."

Meadows are not springing forth as rapidly as usual, a result of insufficient moisture.

COMPROMISE REACHED ON PLUMB BILL

Columbus, April 21.—A compromise on the Plumb school code bill has been reached by Speaker Conover, Chairman Plumb and Representative Thatcher of Clinton, author of the school code law. First grade high schools in villages of 500 or more population are given the option of being exempt from county supervisors. First and second grade high schools may be exempted from district supervision and be supervised by the county superintendent. If there is only one supervisory district its schools shall be supervised by the county superintendent. Schools having an aggregate of thirty teachers are made the minimum for a supervisory district and there is no maximum.

Whether public bonds shall be exempted from taxation again will be put up to the voters in the form of a constitutional amendment this fall. This was assured when the senate, by a vote of 30 to 0, adopted the Purdum resolution providing for the submission of the question.

Powers of the state board of censors to prevent exhibitions of undesirable films in moving picture theaters are enlarged by the Besaw bill, which passed the house. Film exchanges, which entirely escape punishment under the present law, are subjected to fine as well as the exhibitor. Fines, too, are assessed for counterfeiting the certificate of approval of a film by the board.

The house took a stand against the requirement of primary candidates that they file petitions when it sent back to committee the Fleming bill with instruction to take the petition feature out. The bill gave candidates the option of filing a 2 per cent petition or making a declaration accompanied by a fee of 1 per cent of the annual salary of the office sought.

Insurance Bill Passed.

The house sent two important insurance bills to the governor by passing Senator Moore's bill that returns premiums, and the expense of reinsurance may be deducted before an insurance company pays the one-half of 1 per cent tax on gross receipts, and Senator Fellingner's bill, extending to accident, health and other insurance companies, except fire and fraternal benefit, the law punishing misrepresentation of the terms of a policy.

The house passed the Pence bill, reducing motorcycle license fees from $10 to $5, and dealers' fees from $20 to $10; the Benedict bill, authorizing the relocation of roads and bridges, to place them above the flood line, and the Kimball bill, for construction by state aid of parts of intercounty and market roads within villages.

All money derived from the special road levy of three-tenths of a mill and from automobile registration fees is to be divided equally between the main market roads and the intercounty highways under provisions of the Cass highway bill, which was passed by the senate by a vote of 26 to 6.

Reports that the Moore civil service bill was to be sent to conference committee for the purpose of revamping the sections dealing with the dismissal of chiefs of police to suit the Anti-Saloon league brought forth the launching of a movement among wet members of the senate for a reconsideration of the vote by which that body had refused to concur in the house amendments, thereby paving the way for sending the measure to conference committee.

Governor Willis made the following statement: "I am not making deals, and shall not, to use one bill to pass or defeat another. Every bill should be considered on its own merits, and I have so told members." This statement was made when the governor heard that postponement by the house of the motion to reconsider the defeated Gallagher coal bill, with the report of the preparation of a substitute coal bill, and senate action in ordering a vote on the Garver tax decentralizing measure had created the impression that the administration had surrendered to the coal men in order to save the tax bill.

The senate passed the Cromley bill, providing that a person whose name shall have been written on a primary ballot shall not be nominated and his name placed on the general election ballot, unless he has received 12 per cent of the total vote cast in the primary or declared his candidacy previous to the primary. The bill is now ready for Governor Willis to sign.

ADHERES TO POLICY OF THE OPEN DOOR

Washington, April 21.—In connection with Sir Edward Grey's announcement in the British house of commons that Great Britain is adhering to the principles of the open door in China and equal opportunity for all, as set forth in her treaty with Japan, the statement was authorized that the United States government is adhering to the same policy.

The impression prevails here that whatever action the United States may be taking is of a very limited character. It may be asserted positively that the United States will do nothing in the far eastern situation which will entail the risk of offending Japan or bringing about any unpleasantness between the two countries. Inasmuch as the administration is satisfied that Japan is prepared to fight, if necessary, to obtain the success of her program in China, while it is known that Japan is convinced that the United States will not fight for its policy in China, it is obvious that little can be expected to result from any representations by this government except insofar as Japan may feel like giving up of her own free will.

Sir Edward Grey's statement was regarded of considerable importance, however. The administration was some time ago given to understand that neither Great Britain, France nor Russia, the other powers interested in China, had relinquished any rights with regard to China. This has been interpreted to mean that after the war a reckoning with Japan may be looked for.

MASSING TROOPS ON THE BORDER

Rome, April 21.—Austria-Hungary is hurriedly gathering troops on the Italian frontier, to face an expected invasion by Italian soldiers, according to dispatches received here. Large contingents of Austrian troops, the reports say, have been quartered at Montefalcone, Ronchi and Sagrado.

The Austrians also are said to have strongly fortified the whole line of the Isonzo river with entrenchments, behind which batteries already are in position. Martial law has been proclaimed in Trent, owing to disorders. Dissatisfaction, especially among the people of Italian descent, has been increasing daily because of the lack of food supplies.

It is claimed in pro-German quarters that the recent frontier incident, when Austrian troops fired across the border, has been settled, but well informed diplomatic sources assert that the position is hopeless.

It is stated in vatican circles that the visit made to the pope a few days ago by Prince Von Buelow, the German ambassador, was to bid farewell to the pontiff, as the diplomat believes his departure from Rome is imminent. Although members of the papal guard and the higher lay officials of the vatican are exempted from service in the Italian army, many of them have asked permission to enlist, including Marquis Montoro, standard bearer of the church, one of the highest offices held by a layman.

OBREGON ARMY PRESSES CLOSE ON VILLA REAR

El Paso, Tex., April 21.—General Obregon's victorious army has been checked at Salamanca, a third of the way from Celaya to Aguas Calientes, by General Villa's rear guard under General Medina Obregon, commander of infantry, according to persons who arrived in Juarez from Torreón. Obregon's advance guard, pressing hard upon Villa's rear, attacked and was repulsed. The attackers retired to wait for reinforcements.

This news is considered significant in that it shows Obregon is following Villa's defeated army as fast as possible. Villa admits, said the arrivals, that his losses in the Celaya battle were 2,500 men.

Though General Villa reported from Aguas Calientes that he was preparing to reorganize his army and return south to battle, he was reported as fortifying Aguas Calientes to make a stand there against Obregon's advance. It was indicated that Villa entirely had abandoned his base at Irapuato.

General Blanco, who disappeared when the provisional president, Gutierrez, evacuated Mexico City several months ago, has reappeared with a command of 7,000 men in southern Jalisco. It was thought that Blanco had been killed. Blanco is allied with neither Villa nor Carranza. General Gutierrez, it is reported, is in the vicinity of Arrambergi, Nuevo Leon, with several thousand men. He, too, is operating independently.

OBREGON ARMY PRESSES CLOSE ON VILLA REAR

El Paso, Tex., April 21.—General Obregon's victorious army has been checked at Salamanca, a third of the way from Celaya to Aguas Calientes, by General Villa's rear guard under General Medina Estrella, commander of infantry, according to persons who arrived in Juarez from Torreon. Obregon's advance guard, pressing hard upon Villa's rear, attacked and was repulsed. The attackers retired to wait for reinforcements.

This news is considered significant in that it shows Obregon is following Villa's defeated army as fast as possible. Villa admits, said the arrivals, that his losses in the Celaya battle were 2,500 men.

Though General Villa reported from Aguas Calientes that he was preparing to reorganize his army and return south to battle, he was reported as fortifying Aguas Calientes to make a stand there against Obregon's advance. It was indicated that Villa entirely had abandoned his base at Irapuato.

General Blanco, who disappeared when the provisional president, Gutierrez, evacuated Mexico City several months ago, has reappeared with a command of 7,000 men in southern Jalisco. It was thought that Blanco had been killed. Blanco is allied with neither Villa nor Carranza. General Gutierrez, it is reported, is in the vicinity of Arrambergi, Nuevo Leon, with several thousand men. He, too, is operating independently.

ONE KILLED IN JITNEY BUS MISHAP

Akron, O., April 21.—William Sparwak, forty-two, a salesman of Tallmadge, was instantly killed when a jitney bus in which he was riding plunged over a fifty-foot embankment. William Bittinger, thirty-five, driver of the automobile, and four small boys were cut and bruised as they rolled to the foot of the incline.

OSBORN BANKERS ARE SET FREE

Xenia, O., April 21.—John H. Barkman and C. C. Jackson, former president and cashier of the Osborn State bank, which failed in June, 1913, were freed of the charge of embezzling $505 of the bank's funds.

New Moving Picture City

And How It Was Built

Front of Administration Building at Universal City.

The moving picture since its inception has accomplished some very wonderful things. The industry that has been created has been a veritable business that breathes nothing but prosperity for those who are in it. The most interesting features, however, are the mystery that seems to surround the many seemingly impossible things that are accomplished by it, and the unexplainable fascination that it has.

A bigger thing than any other that has so far been done in the picture business was recently accomplished by Mr. Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company. A few miles from Los Angeles a brand new city has been built by him, which is used solely for the making of moving pictures.

In the San Bernardino valley the Universal company has built in a few short months a city which is complete in every detail. To gaze down upon this city from one of the mountains a time when the modern conveniences were not known.

The changeable architectural scheme has been carried out in the entire city and landscapes have been treated in the same way, that is, viewed from one side they present a certain aspect, from the opposite direction the character is of an entirely different sort. This will enable a director who, under ordinary circumstances, would have a certain number of good locations in such an extremely favored site as Universal City, to construct from fifteen to twenty-five more scenes with the same locations, which can be changed under the skillful guidance of the general manager.

The cost of the building of this wonder city will run into a million dollars; the cost of its maintenance will also require another large sum. This vast expenditure is being made at a time when nearly all the business men throughout the world are either contracting their business or limiting it to its present development owing to breeds, long-horned steers, burros, military mules and Shetland ponies are stabled in several corrals.

There are two modern and thoroughly equipped hospitals and infirmaries fitted out with every modern instrument for surgical and pathological remedy. These are under the direction of two physicians. The pharmacy department contains every drug, chemical and scientific appliance necessary to the upkeep of the medical department.

A quarter mile track, which will serve many purposes, encircles a playground which includes a baseball diamond, handball alleys and tennis courts. Circling the track are grandstands, stadiums and bleachers, which can be converted into the ancient Roman amphitheater or the Olympic stadium of Greece.

Every nature of vehicle is contained in the carriage house, ranging from the chariot of the Homeric warrior to our most up-to-date laundau. Next to this is the garage, containing a hundred automobiles of different makes and descriptions. Its smithy and harness shops are complete and thoroughly equipped for the purposes intended.

Cottages, bungalows and villas of all descriptions are interspersed here and there throughout the city. These are rented to the employees by the Universal company at rates far beneath the usual rental. It is not the intention of the company to make any money on the rental of these quarters, but it is merely charging the actual cost.

For the convenience of both men and women a clubhouse has been built. This contains a library, Turkish bath, bowling alleys, swimming pool, billiard and pool rooms, grill, lounge and reception rooms. The club is controlled and maintained by the company for the use and enjoyment of the inhabitants of the city. Adjoining the club is the gym, complete in its appointments, including everything in use in the athletic clubs in our largest cities.

The best water that can be obtained in California is supplied to every building. Its reservoirs are fed by seven artesian wells, which give water 99 per cent pure at the rate of 300,000 gallons per day.

While the city itself is very picturesque, there are within it many odd settlements. The Indian village, which lies off in one section of the city, is characteristic of the dyed-in-the-wool Indian as he was known in the last century. Their tepees are strewn over this section and they are permitted to pursue their own mode of living. They take great delight in reviving the customs that were in vogue when they freely roamed the plains and shot the wild animals in their favorite hunting grounds. They have revived the occupations that were indulged in by their ancestors, such as the shaping of pottery, making of bows and arrows, stringing of beads and making of tomahawks.

There are two restaurants on the ground, which are equipped and finished with the same completeness that will be found in any large city. For their own entertainment the photo players have organized an orchestra, which plays both the classic and popular pieces during the dining hours. This orchestra is screened from view by palms and ferns.

A stage accommodating 20 sets of scenery and conceded to be the largest stage in the world, is built in this city. In addition to this, there also has been built a large inside studio, which is used during the rainy season. There is also a wonderful revolving stage and a rocking stage, two innovations in the making of pictures.

The river which flows through the city is spanned by a number of bridges, ranging from the rustic foot bridge to the American trestle. All of these bridges can be converted so as to resemble some other kind of bridge, such as a Roman stone bridge or a cantilever. On the river itself is a fleet of boats ranging from a canoe to a fully-equipped steam launch.

The river is dammed so that a certain low section can be overflowed to convert it into a miniature lake. There is also much natural scenery available, such as the rugged mountain sides, the deep-cut canyons, the waterfalls which abound in the mountains, the numerous caves which dot the hillsides, and the ocean, which is but a few miles away.

There are many strange animals in this city which will remind one of the jungles of Africa or the wilds of India. The llamas, the tigers, leopards, hyenas, giraffes, zebras and many other wild animals complete one of the largest privately owned menageries in the world.

The natural scenery which surrounds Universal City makes it one of the most visited beauty spots on the coast. Rugged mountain sides, with their native trees and foliage, crevices, caves and canyons abound throughout this range. The city itself is laid out in flower gardens, which include plants secured from many foreign countries. Also the native flowers blossom there in abundance. Sunken gardens have been built, and many corners are beautified with plant life, all of which are used to splendid advantage in the pictures.

There are many other interesting spots in Universal City which must necessarily be seen to be appreciated, such as the inclosure in which the animal pictures are taken, the Wyoming village and the mechanical departments.

The population of Universal City is composed entirely of people engaged in the making of moving pictures, including many of the famous stage people of the world.

which surround it is like getting a bird's eye view of the entire world. In one section the seven hills of Rome may be seen. Paris, with its peculiar style of architecture; New York's skyscrapers; London, or perhaps some other well known city will be among the many strange sights.

This city is entirely completed, and the official opening took place on March 15. Now the Universal company are permitting visitors to come and see how moving pictures are made, to become acquainted with the many players who are familiar to them on the screen, and to roam at will around this wonder city to view the many things that are required in the making of photo plays. The Universal company will conduct a movie exposition at their city these coming months. This exhibit will include everything used in the making of pictures from the raw film to the moving picture theater itself, where photo plays will be shown the entire day.

Although the city contains everything that is required by a municipality from a waterworks system down to street cleaners, it also has many other things that could be found only in such a strange city as this. Things that represent periods of the long ago are typified in miniature.

Universal City is a land of make-believe. Ancient cities are erected; historical things are enacted, to be replaced on the morrow by something a little more modern. There is not a building in the entire limits of Universal City which could not be changed over night into something radically different and changed back again with equal facility.

The ability to change the color of the city at the slightest wish is what makes Universal City the most remarkable town that has ever been constructed by man. The large administration building itself is built with a different face on every quarter, and one of the shocks to which unsuspecting visitors at Universal City are likely to be subjected is the return through it from a different quarter to find it finished in an altogether different architectural scheme.

All of the streets are scientifically paved and piped for gas, electricity and sewer mains. It was also necessary to place the telephone and telegraph wires underground because of the possibility of interference with the making of pictures, some of the scenes of which are laid in ancient periods at the unsettled condition in Europe. While it is a big outlay, nevertheless it will prove a great economy in the future, as everything required in the making of pictures, from the smallest prop to the rarest bit of scenery, will be at their command.

The administration building, which is a series of structures facing the boulevard, contains the meeting room, reception hall, cashier's department, library, scenario department, telephone exchange, stenographers' department, telegraph office, auditor's office and general manager's office.

This building alone cost thirty thousand dollars. Its four sides are all different, representing various styles of architecture. The laboratory also has this peculiarity of exterior. The theater, which can be converted to represent either a country or city theater, will permit the showing of three pictures at one time. There are also bunkhouses for the cowboys and barracks for the housing of the Universal troops of expert cavalymen. These buildings, beside serving their original purpose, can be given a temporary mission to serve the pictures in some other capacity.

The wardrobe building stands by itself a short distance from the other main structures. It has a floor space of 50 by 100 feet. The costume shops, the interior of which would remind one of a large clothing establishment, contain 20 electrically operated sewing machines. This department has facilities for the making of any kind of costume that may be required, from the period of Adam to our present styles. The work is supervised by experts who have spent many years in the making of costumes for theatrical purposes.

A school for the children, which is operated under state supervision, has been built in Universal City. Alongside of the main school building an outdoor equipment has been supplied, so that on pleasant days school can be conducted in the open. The child actors and the children who are not appearing in film, in this way are given the education which the state prescribes for all its residents.

There is a great number of dressing rooms, all of which are fireproof and equipped with hot and cold running water, electric and gas lights and steam heat. Adjacent to the dressing rooms are swimming pools and bath-rooms for both men and women.

In addition to this, there also has been built a large inside studio, which is used during the rainy season. There is also a wonderful revolving stage and a rocking stage, two innovations in the making of pictures.

The river which flows through the city is spanned by a number of bridges, ranging from the rustic foot bridge to the American trestle. All of these bridges can be converted so as to resemble some other kind of bridge, such as a Roman stone bridge or a cantilever. On the river itself is a fleet of boats ranging from a canoe to a fully-equipped steam launch.

The river is dammed so that a certain low section can be overflowed to convert it into a miniature lake. There is also much natural scenery available, such as the rugged mountain sides, the deep-cut canyons, the waterfalls which abound in the mountains, the numerous caves which dot the hillsides, and the ocean, which is but a few miles away.

There are many strange animals in this city which will remind one of the jungles of Africa or the wilds of India. The llamas, the tigers, leopards, hyenas, giraffes, zebras and many other wild animals complete one of the largest privately owned menageries in the world.

The natural scenery which surrounds Universal City makes it one of the most visited beauty spots on the coast. Rugged mountain sides, with their native trees and foliage, crevices, caves and canyons abound throughout this range. The city itself is laid out in flower gardens, which include plants secured from many foreign countries. Also the native flowers blossom there in abundance. Sunken gardens have been built, and many corners are beautified with plant life, all of which are used to splendid advantage in the pictures.

There are many other interesting spots in Universal City which must necessarily be seen to be appreciated, such as the inclosure in which the animal pictures are taken, the Wyoming village and the mechanical departments.

The population of Universal City is composed entirely of people engaged in the making of moving pictures, including many of the famous stage people of the world.

NO MORE ACHING LAME BACKS!

When it's hard to straighten up quickly and there's a "crick-in-your-back" and every joint and muscle in your body aches and you have that "don't care" feeling, ask your druggist for a bottle of Hoff's German Liniment. This famous, stainless, greaseless, refreshing-odor liniment is made from the same formula as the doctors use with such success in Germany. It is pure and white as snow and it won't soil the finest clothes.

For 18 years Hoff's German Liniment has been the unequalled remedy for Rheumatism, Lame Back, Neuralgia, Sore Throat, Cold on the Lungs, Cold in the Head, Bruises, Sprains, Aching Joints, Sore Feet, Corns, Bunions, etc. It can be taken internally for Colds, Coughs, Croup, etc. It is powerful and penetrating. Fine for children. Nothing like it in existence for stopping pain. Made from white emulsion of camphor cream with other pure, harmless, effective ingredients. Everyone knows the value of camphor for relieving pain, but its great drawback is that it leaves the pores open. Hoff's German Liniment keeps the pores closed—keeps colds out.

Mr. Bowser Hits It

Not the Point, However, but the Floor.

By M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Mr. Bowser had been as good as pie all the evening, but that he was also nervous and restless had not escaped Mrs. Bowser's attention. There were several things he could have picked a row about, but didn't. The cook burned the steak, but he never noticed it; the gas bill had come in and lay in plain sight, but he did not pick it up; a caster had worked out of the leg of a chair, but he put it back without a word of comment on carelessness and destruction. Mrs. Bowser couldn't help but know that something was wrong and finally queried:

"Have you got one of your headaches tonight?"

"Not the slightest headache," he replied.

"But you don't feel exactly well?"

"Never felt better in my life."

His goodness continued till bedtime, and then he announced that he would sit up an hour later to overhaul certain accounts. He assumed a very innocent look over it, but Mrs. Bowser was not to be deceived. When she reached the head of the stairs she sat down to see what would happen. For a few moments after her disappearance Mr. Bowser sat and contemplated the cat in an absentminded way, and then he got up, peeled off his coat and vest, and she heard him say:

"Now, then, to tackle that speech. I'm bound to make one or bust. The idea that I've lived to my age without making a political speech is all blamed nonsense! Here goes. I am brought out and introduced as the Hon. Bowser; I bow; I am applauded to the echo; I draw a long breath and begin:

"Fellow citizens—As men of intelligence, as patriots anxious for the welfare of our country, we have assembled here this evening to take counsel together. (Long pause.) The question before us is a vital one. (Pause and coughing, with a meow from that cat.) I do not say that the life of this republic hangs in the balance (pause), but I do say that—that!"

Mr. Bowser had got stuck. He walked to and fro and gestured and muttered, but the words would not come. The cat began to howl in sympathy or fear, and Mrs. Bowser heard him throwing a magazine at her and threatening her life. It was five minutes before he picked up the thread again, and his tones showed that he felt doubtful of his ability to carry out the job in hand.

"But I do say that if the majority of the electors of this country make a mistake at the polls in 1916 bloodshed, bankruptcy and anarchy may follow. While we differ in particulars, we are agreed upon a whole, and that whole is—is—(pause) that whole, fellow patriots, is—that is—that is—er—"

It was another breakdown. A dog in a neighbor's back yard howled dismally. The cat under the piano arched her back and dug her claws into a carpet and wondered why she had not noted these signs of insanity before. Mrs. Bowser could hear all the cuss words and the heavy breathing, and she wondered if Mr. Bowser would knock the face off the new seven day clock before he got through with it. He walked about for awhile, and then his mind seemed to suddenly cramp the missing link.

"With a determination unshaken by prophecies of evil, with a heart undaunted by danger, with his trust in a being higher than man, Columbus finally set out on his memorable voyage. We give him credit as a discoverer, but we fail to give him credit—to give him credit—I say we fail to fail to give credit for—for—"

Mrs. Bowser laughed till the tears came. He had wandered off on an old speech he had once delivered before a gang of forty Italians, not one of whom could speak five words of English. He suddenly discovered that things didn't match, and stood staring at the wall and wondering if the bottom of the river had fallen out. Even the cat, who was not born until three years after that Italian speech, recognized the fact that he was working old stock off on her, and she clawed and spat and sent forth a wail of displeasure.

"By John, but I'll git that speech or break my neck!" muttered Mr. Bowser as he went tramping around, and after a couple of minutes his voice was heard again.

"Let us see what Mr. Wilson has done; let us see what Mr. Bryan has done. We must judge men by their actions. There are, no doubt, citizens before me who argue to themselves— who argue—to—who argue to themselves (stuck) that—that the country will go on and prosper—and prosper, no matter who is elected president. But let us—let us—"

The belt had slipped off the drive-wheel again, and Mr. Bowser jumped up and down in his madness and the cat rolled over and over. The time and opportunity for making the speech of his life were at hand, but Mr. Bowser couldn't make the old thing go along without a wabble. He finally got a happy inspiration. He had been too anxious, too nervous. He would simply open his mouth and let the words pop out and arrange themselves into shape. While shaking with suppressed laughter and clinging to the banister to prevent falling downstairs, Mrs. Bowser heard him say:

"But did the snow and cold and hunger of Valley Forge discourage the great and noble heart of our beloved Washington? No! Surrounded even by traitors, menaced by enemies in congress, having to duel with the British in front and insubordination in his own camp, that grand hero never faltered. (Long pause.) When spring came—when—when spring came, I say that when spring came—and when spring came he—he—he—"

It was a portion of an essay he had written and delivered as a schoolboy. The cat got on to it and howled. A boy in a back yard got on to it and threw a potato against the Bowser mansion with a heart thrilling smash. Mr. Bowser himself got on to it and threw a vase at the cat and made a mighty kick at a chair and went down with all his weight on the floor. Things were still rattling and jarring when Mrs. Bowser started downstairs. She was just in time to answer the ring of a policeman, who took off his hat and said:

"Excuse me, ma'am, but I heard a great noise and thought the hot water boiler or the gas meter had blown up. I see it was only Mr. Bowser practicing with Italian clubs or something. Good night, ma'am. I'll be in front if you should find any bones broken and want a doctor."

"By thunder, but can't a man—can't a man?" stammered Mr. Bowser as he got to his feet.

"No, he can't practice athletics and jar the whole of the Sixteenth ward out of bed!" replied Mrs. Bowser.

"You go back upstairs, and when I want you I will let you know."

She went, and after three or four minutes the orator growled to himself: "If I am getting softening of the brain I want to know it here and now. If I once get the hang of it that speech will unwind like a ball of twine. Here goes."

"Mr. Chairman—I stand before you, as the representative of 10,000,000 electors, and I am here to sound—to sound—I am here to tell them—tell them—tell!"

"That you can't make a speech!" came Mrs. Bowser's voice from the head of the stairs, and the orator put on his overcoat and hat and went out into the night to discover some tramp and give him a good licking to get even.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Sore Throat.

Mild cases of sore throat can be treated at home oftentimes. Sucking small pieces of ice relieves the heat and pain in the throat. Wrapping the throat with towels which have been wrung out of cold water is another grateful treatment. Soaking the feet in hot water to which a little mustard has been added is also helpful. One should go to bed at once after having the foot bath. Before taking the foot bath take a selditz powder or a glass of citrate of magnesia. A sore throat is often an outward expression of a mild toxemia caused by the retention of fermenting food in the digestive canal. The laxative medicine relieves this condition and cures the throat trouble.

AUTOMATIC POLICEMEN.

Mechanical Devices to Control Traffic on Crowded Streets.

An automatic traffic policeman, which picks itself up every time it is knocked down by a careless driver, is one of the latest of the many inventions to control vehicular traffic on crowded city streets. It is a metal cylinder about four feet high, which is placed in the roadway at the middle of the intersection of two streets, and is intended to warn drivers against the dangerous practice of cutting across from one street to another instead of making a safe turn at right angles.

The automatic policeman is attached to a spring hidden in a deep hole in the pavement. If the wheel of a passing motor truck strikes the sign and knocks it down the spring goes to work and pulls the policeman up to a standing position again, like the toy figure that cannot be made to lie down. Thirty of these are in use in a Massachusetts city.

Another odd automatic policeman is in service in San Francisco. High in the air at the intersection of two streets and suspended by wires from corner buildings is an arrow bearing the word "Stop!"

This arrow can be turned to stop the traffic on one street, and then turned to stop it on the cross street, by the manipulation of buttons from a convenient post at the street curb.

Each time the arrow moves, a bell above it rings once or twice, in accordance with the usual whistle signals for traffic, but in case of a fire, with the prospect that fire apparatus will soon be along, the arrow begins to whirl round and the bell rings continuously, to signify that all traffic on both streets must be stopped.—Saturday Evening Post.

HERE'S A BASEBALL TIP.

This Writer Picks the Boston Americans and Giants as Winners.

Just now the fans who prefer to back a favorite rather than a long shot are proclaiming that the Braves are due to repeat their 1914 performances and that the Red Sox will scamper away with the American league bunting. Possibly they are correct. Personally, I will confess that I favor the Boston team so top the racers in the Johnson outfit, unless Connie Mack turns out to be another miracle worker. But the Stallings crew, wonderful players though they are, have no cinch on the rag in the parent organization. Admitting that they have every advantage in a paper forecast, there's a man a slip 'twixt April and October, as McGraw's bunch learned to their sorrow last season.

One year ago yours truly tipped the boys that the Braves were the real dark horses in the race, and today I feel that the rooters would do well to watch the Glances from the clang of the first gong. This tip is not backed by sentiment, for I am sure that the Braves' wonderful showing did a lot to help the cause of baseball generally, but it's a "100 to 1 shot" that the New York aggregation will demonstrate very soon that it is back on the job and ready and willing to exchange wallop for wallop, until the leaves begin to fall.—Ed A. Goewey in Leslie's.

The Peanut Crop.

Virginia still leads in the production of peanuts, with Oklahoma and Texas following. The last statistics show that there were 680,000 acres in this country planted to this product. Curiously enough, Marseilles, France, is the greatest peanut consumer in the world, owing to the use made of the nut in the production of oil, which substitutes to a great extent for olive oil.

Swine Market of Warsaw.

Warsaw's swine market is one of the most original in the world, and the first view obtained of it by the traveler is startling. On the stone paved market place the bodies are laid in irregular rows, and here come the buyers to examine and purchase at will.

A One Man Submarine.

A former United States naval officer has invented a one man submarine carrying a full sized torpedo in its bow, and with a plug that automatically closes the opening when the torpedo has been fired.

JAPANESE UMBRELLA TRICK.

It Was a Street Incident That Led Up to the Clever Feat.

Feats with an umbrella—of the Japanese kind—are very common. The juggler throws up a ball, catches it on the top of an open umbrella and by twisting the handle rapidly, causes the ball to run round the edge of the umbrella. A similar feat is performed with curtain rings and with coins. The smaller and lighter the coin the more difficult the feat.

All these feats were originated by a street performer in Japan. One day while passing under the walls of a castle a small audience collected on the top of the wall and playfully dropped some tangerines on to the comedian of the company of struggling jugglers. (No such company is complete without a comedian.) The next day the comedian was treated in the same manner, and so he put up a paper umbrella to shield himself. The shower of tangerines broke through the umbrella.

Then the leading juggler of the company saw his opportunity. He took the umbrella, twisted it quickly and by making it revolve caused the tangerines to fly off. While he was doing this he was helped by a lucky accident. One of the tangerines rolled round the umbrella once before dropping on the ground. The juggler picked up the tangerine and caught it once more on his revolving umbrella, and thus the feat was invented.

The hardest feat of all with the umbrella is done with a Japanese coin which is lighter than an American cent.—London Strand Magazine.

HE WAS HUNGRY.

Under the Circumstances His Jumble of Words Was Excusable.

Professor Sigmund Freud, the eminent German scholar, has made a study of lingual blunders, spoken and printed, and has embodied the result in his book, "Psychopathology." As an example of blundering speech caused by subconscious cerebration he gives the following:

"A wealthy but not very generous American host invited his friends to an evening party. Everything went well until about midnight, when there was an intermission for supper. To the disappointment of many of the guests there was no real supper. Instead they were regaled with thin sandwiches and lemonade."

"As it was during the presidential campaign, the conversation turned upon the different candidates, and as the discussion grew warmer one of the guests, an ardent Progressive, remarked to the host:

"You may say what you please about Roosevelt, but there is one thing he can always be relied upon to do—he always gives you a square meal."

"He meant, of course, to say a 'square deal.' The assembled guests burst into a roar of laughter, to the great embarrassment both of the speaker and of the host."

Sweating Gold Coins.

Short weight gold coins have made their appearance recently in several of the local banks in considerable quantities. A number of $5 gold pieces that were 60 cents short were discovered in the subtreasury, having been sent there by banks which received them from out of town connections. Experts say that the coins have been treated with a bath of nitromuriatic acid, which removes part of the gold in such a manner that only by weighing can the loss be detected.—Philadelphia Record.

Thankful For It.

Sergeant Pitz believed in handling his men firmly. Pausing before one recruit, he eyed him sternly.

"Now, then, pull yourself together," he barked harshly; "you're standing all wrong. Your uniform's not put on right, your buttons are dirty, and you're holding your rifle like a hay-fork. Let's see if you can march. Right about face!"

The recruit stood stock still and heaved a sigh of relief.

"Thank goodness," he said, with resignation, "I'm right about some- thing, anyway."—Exchange.

Mr. Bowser Hits It

Not the Point, However, but the Floor.

By M. QUAD.
Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Mr. Bowser had been as good as pie all the evening, but that he was also nervous and restless had not escaped Mrs. Bowser's attention. There were several things he could have picked a row about, but didn't. The cook burned the steak, but he never noticed it; the gas bill had come in and lay in plain sight, but he did not pick it up; a caster had worked out of the log of a chair, but he put it back without a word of comment on carelessness and destruction. Mrs. Bowser couldn't help but know that something was wrong and finally queried:

"Have you got one of your headaches tonight?"

"Not the slightest headache," he re- plied.

"But you don't feel exactly well?"

"Never felt better in my life."

His goodness continued till bedtime, and then he announced that he would sit up an hour later to overhaul cer- tain accounts. He assumed a very in- nocent look over it, but Mrs. Bowser was not to be deceived. When she reached the head of the stairs she sat down to see what would happen. For a few moments after her disappear- ance Mr. Bowser sat and contemplat- ed the cat in an absentminded way, and then he got up, peeled off his coat and vest, and she heard him say:

"Now, then, to tackle that speech. I'm bound to make one or bust. The idea that I've lived to my age without making a political speech is all blamed nonsense! Here goes. I am brought out and introduced as the Hon. Bowser, I bow; I am applauded to the echo; I draw a long breath and begin:

"Fellow citizens—As men of intel- ligence, as patriots anxious for the wel- fare of our country, we have assem- bled here this evening to take counsel together. (Long pause.) The question before us is a vital one. (Pause and coughing, with a meow from that cat.) I do not say that the life of this re- public hangs in the balance (pause), but I do say that—that!"

Mr. Bowser had got stuck. He walk- ed to and fro and gestured and mut- tered, but the words would not come. The cat began to howl, in sympathy or fear, and Mrs. Bowser heard him throwing a magazine at her and threat- ening her life. It was five minutes before he picked up the thread again, and his tones showed that he felt doubtful of his ability to carry out the job in hand.

"But I do say that if the majority of the electors of this country make a mistake at the polls in 1916 blood- shed, bankruptcy and anarchy may fol- low. While we differ in particulars, we are agreed upon a whole, and that whole is—(pause)—that whole, fel- low patriots, is—that is—that is—er!"

It was another breakdown. A dog in a neighbor's back yard howled dismal- ly. The cat under the piano arched her back and dug her claws into a car- pet and wondered why she had not noted these signs of insanity before. Mrs. Bowser could hear all the cuss words and the heavy breathing, and she wondered if Mr. Bowser would knock the face off the new seven day clock before he got through with it. He walked about for awhile, and then his mind seemed to suddenly grasp the missing link.

"With a determination unshaken by prophecies of evil, with a heart un- daunted by danger, with his trust in a being higher than man, Columbus finally set out on his memorable voy- age. We give him credit as a discov- erer, but we fail to give him credit— to give him credit—I say we fail to give—you will agree with me that we fail to give credit for—for!"

Mrs. Bowser laughed till the tears came. He had wandered off on an old speech he had once delivered before a gang of forty Italians, not one of whom could speak five words of En- glish. He suddenly discovered that things didn't match, and stood staring at the wall and wondering if the bot- tom of the river had fallen out. Even the cat, who was not born until three years after that Italian speech, recog- nized the fact that he was working old stock off on her, and she clawed and spat and sent forth a wail of displeas- ure.

"By John, but I'll git that speech or break my neck!" muttered Mr. Bowser as he went tramping around, and after a couple of minutes his voice was heard again.

"Let us see what Mr. Wilson has done; let us see what Mr. Bryan has done. We must judge men by their actions. There are, no doubt, citizens before me who argue to themselves— who argue—to—who argue to them- selves (stuck)—that—that the country will go on and prosper—and prosper, no matter who is elected president. But let us—let us!"

The belt had slipped off the drive- wheel again, and Mr. Bowser jumped up and down in his madness and the cat rolled over and over. The time and opportunity for making the speech of his life were at hand, but Mr. Bowser couldn't make the old thing go along without a wobble. He finally got a happy inspiration. He had been too anxious, too nervous. He would simply open his mouth and let the words pop out and arrange themselves into shape. While shaking with sup- pressed laughter and clinging to the banister to prevent falling downstairs, Mrs. Bowser heard him say:

"But did the snow and cold and bun- ger of Valley Forge discourage the great and noble heart of our beloved Wash- ington? No! Surrounded even by trait- ors, menaced by enemies in congress, having to duel with the British in front and insubordination in his own camp, that grand hero never faltered (Long pause.) When spring came— when—when spring came, I say that when spring came—and when spring came he—he—he!"

It was a portion of an essay he had written and delivered as a schoolboy. The cat got on to it and howled. A boy in a back yard got on to it and threw a potato against the Bowser mansion with a heart thrilling smash. Mr. Bowser himself got on to it and threw a vase at the cat and made a mighty kick at a chair and went down with all his weight on the floor. Things were still rattling and jarring when Mrs. Bowser started downstairs. She was just in time to answer the ring of a policeman, who took off his hat and said:

"Excuse me, ma'am, but I heard a great noise and thought the hot wa- ter boiler or the gas meter had blown up. I see it was only Mr. Bowser practicing with Italian clubs or some- thing. Good night, ma'am. I'll be in front if you should find any bones broken and want a doctor."

"By thunder, but can't a man—can't a man?" stammered Mr. Bowser as he got to his feet.

"No, he can't practice athletics and jar the whole of the Sixteenth ward out of bed!" replied Mrs. Bowser.

"You go back upstairs, and when I want you I will let you know."

She went, and after three or four minutes the orator growled to himself: "If I am getting softening of the brain I want to know it here and now. If I once get the hang of it that speech will unwind like a ball of twine. Here goes."

"Mr. Chairman—I stand before you as the representative of 10,000,000 electors, and I am here to sound—to sound—I am here to tell them—tell them—tell!"

"That you can't make a speech!" came Mrs. Bowser's voice from the head of the stairs, and the orator put on his overcoat and hat and went out into the night to discover some tramp and give him a good licking to get even.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Sore Throat.

Mild cases of sore throat can be treated at home oftentimes. Sucking small pieces of ice re- lieves the heat and pain in the throat. Wrapping the throat with towels which have been wrung out of cold water is another grateful treatment. Soaking the feet in hot water to which a lit- tle mustard has been added is also helpful. One should go to bed at once after having the foot bath. Before taking the foot bath take a sedlitz powder or a glass of citrate of magnesia. A sore throat is often an outward expression of a mild toxæmia caused by the retention of fer- menting food in the digestive can- al. The laxative medicine re- lieves this condition and cures the throat trouble.

AUTOMATIC POLICEMEN.

Mechanical Devices to Control Traffic on Crowded Streets.

An automatic traffic policeman, which picks itself up every time it is knocked down by a careless driver, is one of the latest of the many inven- tions to control vehicular traffic on crowded city streets. It is a metal cylinder about four feet high, which is placed in the roadway at the middle of the intersection of two streets, and is intended to warn drivers against the dangerous practice of cutting across from one street to another instead of making a safe turn at right angles.

The automatic policeman is attached to a spring hidden in a deep hole in the pavement. If the wheel of a pas- sing motor truck strikes the sign and knocks it down the policeman goes to work and pulls the policeman up to a standing position again, like the toy figure that cannot be made to lie down. Thirty of these are in use in a Massa- chusetts city.

Another odd automatic policeman is in service in San Francisco. High in the air at the intersection of two streets and suspended by wires from corner buildings is an arrow bearing the word "Stop!"

This arrow can be turned to stop the traffic on one street, and then turned to stop it on the cross street, by the manipulation of buttons from a con- venient post at the street curb.

Each time the arrow moves, a bell above it rings once or twice, in ac- cordance with the usual whistle signals for traffic, but in case of a fire, with the prospect that fire apparatus will soon be along, the arrow begins to whirl round and the bell rings continuously, to signify that all traffic on both streets must be stopped.—Saturday Evening Post.

HERE'S A BASEBALL TIP.

This Writer Picks the Boston Ameri- cans and Giants as Winners.

Just now the fans who prefer to back a favorite rather than a long shot are proclaiming that the Braves are due to repeat their 1914 perform- ances and that the Red Sox will scam- per away with the American league bunting. Possibly they are correct. Personally, I will confess that I favor the Boston team to top the racers in the Johnson outfit, unless Connie Mack turns out to be another miracle work- er. But the Stallings crew, wonderful players though they are, have no cinch on the rag in the parent organization. Admitting that they have every ad- vantage in a paper forecast, there's a man a slip 'twixt April and October, as McGraw's brush learned to their sorrow last season.

One year ago years truly tipped the boys that the Braves were the real dark horses in the race, and today I feel that the rooters would do well to watch the Glens from the clasp of the first gong. This tip is not backed by sentiment, for I am sure that the Braves' wonderful showing did a lot to help the cause of baseball generally, but it's a "100 to 1 shot" that the New York aggregation will demonstrate very soon that it is back on the job and ready and willing to exchange wallop for wallop, until the leaves be- gin to fall.—Ed A. Goewey in Leslie's.

The Peanut Crop.

Virginia still leads in the production of peanuts, with Oklahoma and Texas following. The last statistics show that there were 680,000 acres in this country planted to this product. Cu- riously enough, Marseilles, France, is the greatest peanut consumer in the world, owing to the use made of the nut in the production of oil, which substitutes to a great extent for olive oil.

Swine Market of Warsaw.

Warsaw's swine market is one of the most original in the world, and the first view obtained of it by the traveler is startling. On the stone paved mar- ket place the bodies are laid in ir- regular rows, and here come the buy- ers to examine and purchase at will.

A One Man Submarine.

A former United States naval officer has invented a one man submarine car- rying a full sized torpedo in its bow, and with a plug that automatically closes the opening when the torpedo has been fired.

JAPANESE UMBRELLA TRICK.

It Was a Street Incident That Led Up to the Clever Feat.

Feats with an umbrella—of the Jap- anese kind—are very common. The juggler throws up a ball, catches it on the top of an open umbrella and by twisting the handle rapidly, causes the ball to run round the edge of the um- brella. A similar feat is performed with curtain rings and with coins. The smaller and lighter the coin the more difficult the feat.

All these feats were originated by a street performer in Japan. One day while passing under the walls of a castle a small audience collected on the top of the wall and playfully drop- ped some tangerines on to the comedian of the company of struggling jugglers. (No such company is complete without a comedian.) The next day the com- edian was treated in the same manner, and so he put up a paper umbrella to shield himself. The shower of tan- gerines broke through the umbrella.

Then the leading juggler of the com- pany saw his opportunity. He took the umbrella, twisted it quickly and by making it revolve caused the tan- gerines to fly off. While he was doing this he was helped by a lucky accident. One of the tangerines rolled round the umbrella once before dropping on the ground. The juggler picked up the tan- gerine and caught it once more on his revolving umbrella, and thus the feat was invented.

The hardest feat of all with the um- brella is done with a Japanese coin which is lighter than an American cent. —London Strand Magazine.

HE WAS HUNGRY.

Under the Circumstances His Jumble of Words Was Excusable.

Professor Sigmund Freud, the emi- nent German scholar, has made a study of lingual blunders, spoken and printed, and has embodied the result in his book, "Psychopathology." As an example of blundering speech caused by subconscious cerebration he gives the following:

"A wealthy but not very generous American host invited his friends to an evening party. Everything went well until about midnight, when there was an intermission for supper. To the disappointment of many of the guests there was no real supper. In- stead they were regaled with thin sandwiches and lemonade.

"As it was during the presidential campaign, the conversation turned upon the different candidates, and as the discussion grew warmer one of the guests, an ardent Progressive, remark- ed to the host:

"You may say what you please about Roosevelt, but there is one thing he can always be relied upon to do—he always gives you a square meal."

"He meant, of course, to say a 'square deal.' The assembled guests burst into a roar of laughter, to the great embar- rassment both of the speaker and of the host."

Sweating Gold Coins.

Short weight gold coins have made their appearance recently in several of the local banks in considerable quan- tities. A number of $5 gold pieces that were 60 cents short were discovered in the subtreasury, having been sent there by banks which received them from out of town connections. Experts say that the coins have been treated with a bath of nitromuriatic acid, which removes part of the gold in such a manner that only by weighing can the loss be detected.—Philadelphia Rec- ord.
